11 NATIONWIDE BIWEEKLY
12 ADMINISTRATION, INC.,

13 Third-Party Plaintiff,

14 v.

15 BMO HARRIS BANK, N.A.,

16 Third-Party Defendant.

Case No. 2:16-cv-00465-APG-CWH

ORDER GRANTING MOTION TO COMPEL ARBITRATION AND DISMISS THIRD-PARTY
COMPLAINT

(ECF No. 51)

17 Third-Party Defendant BMO Harris Bank, N.A. moves to dismiss the third-party claims
18 asserted against it by Nationwide Biweekly Administration, Inc. (NBA). ECF No. 51. Because 19 those claims are subject to a valid arbitration agreement, I grant BMO's motion.

20 BMO and NBA are parties to a Master Agreement. ECF No. 40-1. That contract contains 21 a provision mandating the arbitration of all disputes "arising out of or relating to" the agreement
22 or services provided under that agreement. Id. at 20. The parties concede the validity of the 23 Master Agreement and arbitration provision, and that the claims at issue in the Third-Party
24 Complaint fall within that provision. NBA tries to avoid arbitration by focusing on one specific 25 part of the arbitration provision that it refers to as the "blow provision":

26 If a court decides that any part of this arbitration provision (other than the 27 prohibition of class or representative actions and/or consolidation) is invalid or 28 unenforceable, the other parts of this arbitration provision will still apply.
However, if a court decides that this paragraph's prohibition of class or

1 representative actions and/or consolidation is invalid or unenforceable, then the
2 entirety of this arbitration provision will be null and void.

3 Id. at 21, § 20(b). NBA argues that because courts have invalidated arbitration provisions
4 prohibiting class or representative actions in the employment context, the “blow provision”
5 renders the entirety of the Master Agreement’s arbitration provision null and void. ECF No. 61 at 6 2. This argument fails for two reasons. First, this is not an employment case and NBA’s claims
7 against BMO do not constitute a class action. Second, no court has invalidated this arbitration
8 provision in the Master Agreement. The “blow provision” focuses on “this paragraph’s
9 prohibition of class or representative actions and/or consolidation.” ECF No. 40-1 at 21, § 20(b)
10 (emphasis added). It is not concerned with provisions in other contracts and other cases. Because 11 no court has invalidated the arbitration provision in the Master Agreement, NBA’s claims must be 12 arbitrated.

13 Finally, NBA argues for a stay, rather than dismissal, of its claims against BMO under 14 section 3 of the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 3. That section “gives a court authority . . . to 15 grant a stay pending arbitration, but does not preclude summary judgment when all claims are 16 barred by an arbitration clause.” Sparling v. Hoffman Const. Co., 864 F.2d 635, 638 (9th Cir.
17 1988). As in Sparling, section 3 of the FAA does not limit my authority to dismiss NBA’s claims
18 because all of NBA’s claims against BMO are subject to arbitration. Thus, there is no reason for 19 me to retain jurisdiction over them and I dismiss the third-party complaint against BMO.

20 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Third-Party Defendant BMO Harris Bank, N.A.’s
21 motion (ECF No. 51) is GRANTED. Should Nationwide Biweekly Administration, Inc. decide
22 to pursue its claims against BMO, it is compelled to submit them to arbitration. The claims
23 asserted against BMO by NBA in this case are dismissed without prejudice.

24 DATED this 13th day of April, 2017.
